

CONTENTS

| | |
|--|-----|
| List of Figures and Tables | 11 |
| Foreword by Francisco Torres and Carlos Zorrinho | 15 |
| Part I: Competitiveness factors in today's economy | |
| Chapter 1: Introduction – Annette Bongardt and Celeste A. Varum | 19 |
| Chapter 2: Innovation and competitiveness: the challenges for Portugal – André Magrinho | 29 |
| Chapter 3: Clusters as a source of competitiveness – Elisabeth Pereira, Henrique Diz and António J. Fernandes | 35 |
| Chapter 4: Strategic planning in an uncertain business environment: the diffusion of scenario planning – Celeste Amorim Varum and Carla Melo | 49 |
| Chapter 5: Increasing the competitiveness of production systems by using U-shaped configurations – Ana Sofia Simaria, Michelle Sá and Pedro Vilarinho | 69 |
| Part II: Challenges and opportunities arising from globalization, the knowledge economy and technological and climate change | |
| Chapter 6: Exploring the sources of Chinese competitiveness in manufacturing – Can Huang, Mingqian Zhang, Yanyun Zhao, and Celeste Amorim Varum | 87 |
| Chapter 7: The influence of universities on the innovative efforts and location choices of technology-based firms: the case of Portugal – Joana Costa and Aurora Teixeira | 105 |
| Chapter 8: Energy efficiency across the supply chain – Sérgio Paulo and Joaquim Borges Gouveia | 119 |
| Chapter 9: Towards a competitive low-carbon economy: on firms' incentives and the role of public research – Annette Bongardt and Isabel Cabrita | 133 |
| Chapter 10: On competitiveness factors – Annette Bongardt and Celeste Amorim Varum | 149 |
| References | 157 |
| A note about the editors and authors | 175 |